CAPITAL WAITS BODY OF HERO; OCEAN FLYERS

Floyd Bennett Will Be Given High Honor at Arlington

BULLETIN. Washington, April 27.—(AP)—President Coolidge has ordered his limousine to be at Union Station this afternoon when the Floyd Bennett funeral train arrives to take the flyer's wife and mother to Arlington cemetery for the final services.

BULLETIN. Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Boiling Field was advised today by Major Reynolds of Mitchell Field, New York, that the Bremen crew will arrive here at 4:50 p. m.

Unless the funeral of Floyd Bennett is postponed, this would get the flyers into Washington too late for the services. These are scheduled to take place immediately after the Bennett funeral train reaches the Capital. The train is due at 3:20 p. m.

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—Two grimly contrasting excursions approached Washington today, one of the funeral train of Floyd Bennett, and the other the triumphant German and Irish trans-Atlantic fliers who hope for a gala entry in the national capital were blasted by death.

Strangely enough, the conquerors of the Atlantic were coming to attend the funeral of a man who just a few days ago, along with the rest of the world had given them up for lost. As they surmounted the thrilling hazards of the northern storms, Bennett was facing the everyday hazards of a disease which humanity has learned to meet stoically.

Bennett, who had safely flown over the North Pole with Byrd, was unable to withstand the attack of pneumonia which he suffered while going to the aid of his fellow aviators, and today those fellow aviators raced toward Washington to pay tribute at his grave.

Burial Near Peary. Stricken just seven days ago in his unselfish attempt to fly to Greenland Island, Bennett today was assigned a small plot in Arlington cemetery not far from that given to Rear Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole.

The day took an unusual air of solemnity in Washington. Much of the enthusiasm with which the capital welcomes its famous air visitors was absent.

The Navy planned to send a hearse to the Union Station to take the casket from the funeral train. A half dozen automobiles were assigned to follow it with the funeral party including Mrs. Bennett and Commander Byrd, to Arlington. At the gate 200 sailors and a bugler will form the procession which will escort the body to its grave. There, in the presence of high officials of the government full military honors will be rendered.

The German-Irish fliers are expected to land at Bolling Field in time to attend the funeral.

A full Navy band will be in the procession within the cemetery. Three volleys will be fired in salute over the grave by the firing squad and taps will be sounded by George D'Amico, solo cornetist of the Navy band.

The services, according to the full military honors customary for those who enter sacred Arlington with national fame spread on their records, will begin immediately the body arrives from New York.

Officials at Station. With a special police escort waiting to convey the casket to the cemetery, Rear Admiral Moffet, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, and Assistant Secretary of War division, in charge of aviation will head the officials who will meet the funeral party at the station.

In the absence of Secretary Wilbur, Assistant Secretary Warner, in charge of Naval aviation, will attend the services. Commander Byrd and Mrs. Bennett, accompanying the body, were given places immediately behind the casket.

Three squads of bluejackets from the Mayflower, the President's yacht, a navy flying squad, and a bugler to sound "taps" will meet the escort at the gates of Arlington, where the funeral procession will form.

Although plans for a formation of naval planes to fly over the procession were believed to have been abandoned, fifty enlisted men from the Anacostia naval air station had requested permission to attend.

BREMEN'S CREW LANDED IN N. Y. ON WASH. TRIP

Few at Curtiss Field When Ford Relief Plane Landed

BULLETIN. Curtiss Field, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—The German-Irish crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen, which landed here this afternoon from Lake Ste. Agnes, will continue its trip to Washington by train. On account of the rain it was decided to abandon the proposed flight in the Ford relief plane.

After consulting time tables it was decided to take the train leaving Pennsylvania station in Manhattan at four o'clock.

Curtiss Field, N. Y., April 27.—(AP)—The crew of the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen landed here at 1:48 p. m.

The Ford relief plane which had brought the fliers from Greenland Island, appeared suddenly over the field at 1:45 and after circling about, settled gently to the ground.

Few people were on hand to greet the fliers. A large delegation of reporters and photographers had been sent from New York on the chance that the plane might stop at the Long Island field, but almost all of them had gathered at Mitchell Field, a mile away from Curtiss Field.

The relief plane left Lake Ste. Agnes, Quebec, early this morning on its way to Washington, where the trans-Atlantic fliers will pay tribute to Floyd Bennett, who died on his way to their assistance.

No stop had been scheduled here, it having been announced that the only possible stop on the way would be Hartford, Conn. In some quarters it was believed that one plan to stop here had been intentionally kept secret to avoid the gathering of a crowd and a premature reception.

It was just two weeks ago this afternoon that great crowds gathered at Mitchell Field to greet the fliers from across the seas, a greeting that was delayed by the Junkers monoplane Bremen was brought down on Greenland Island where it still lies.

Lake Ste. Agnes, Quebec, April 27.—(AP)—Away from Greenland Island for the first time since their trans-Atlantic plane landed there on April 13, two German fliers and their Irish comrade, were intent today upon a 700-mile flight to Washington to honor an American aviator who died trying to aid them.

In the tri-motored Ford relief plane in which they landed here yesterday from an eight and one-half hour flight from Greenland Island, the Bremen crew planned the trip to the capital to lay a wreath on the grave at Arlington national cemetery of Floyd Bennett, who originally commanded the relief expedition.

Decision to postpone their arrival at Mitchell Field, N. Y., was announced after a conference with Miss Herta Junkers, daughter of the builder of the Bremen. She decided to fly to Washington with them.

The flight from Greenland Island was through several snow storms but the plane arrived here on schedule.

Greeted by Crowd. Several hundred persons had gathered on the frozen lake that serves as a landing field here and set up a cheer when the plane, piloted by Ben Balchen, came to a perfect landing on its skis.

Among the first to greet the Bremen crew was Miss Junkers who rushed up to Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, planted a kiss on his cheek and welcomed him in German.

It was Major Fitzmaurice's second visit to Lake Ste. Agnes. He came here once before to arrange for the relief of his German comrades.

An official greeting to the trans-Atlantic fliers was extended by Abbe Savard of the parish of Malbaie, who read an address of welcome in French.

To this Baron von Huenefeld replied in the same language. "We appreciate the boundless hospitality of (Continued on page 2)

Streator Youth Will Face Second Trial Next September

Ottawa, Ill., April 27.—(AP)—Harry Hill, young alleged matricide, was admitted to $20,000 bond today when Judge Joe A. Davis sustained the defense's challenge of the jury list drawn for the youth's second murder trial and continued the case until next September.

Friends of the Hill family immediately set about signing the bond for the youth and it was indicated he soon would be free after incarceration since last September.

At the inception of his second trial less than a week ago the defense demanded Hill be released on bond because his health had been broken. Judge Davis denied him bond, however.

The youth motion to discharge the jury because he had not been brought to trial promptly.

The third action of the defense was a motion to suppress the evidence found in the Hill home. They held Hill's constitutional rights had been invaded when authorities entered the Hill home and seized evidence without the support of a search warrant. Judge Davis yesterday denied that motion.

Jury List Attacked. The last defense motion, entered yesterday, was that which became successful today. It challenged the list of jurors on the ground it had not been drawn properly.

As the young man turned away from the judge's bench, after making bond, he remarked to a deputy sheriff, "Well, I eat today."

Aside from that remark, he had little to say.

"I am so glad to get out for a breath of fresh air, I can't talk," he exclaimed as he walked from the courtroom with his father, Dr. H. C. Hill, who has stood staunchly by him since his arrest.

The bond for Harry's release was signed by the father and A. S. Schoch, an Ottawa banker.

"I only undertook the case after very careful investigation," said B. M. Chipperfield of Canton, Ill., who was retained as counsel, with A. E. Butters of Ottawa, after the attorneys who conducted the first trial resigned.

"I became convinced that Harry Hill is innocent, and believing so shall do everything possible to establish that fact as speedily as possible."

Health Considered. Judge Joe A. Davis, in admitting Hill on bond and setting the trial for September 4, said he did so solely in the interest of the young man's health.

Harry's mother, elderly and wealthy, according to Streator standards, was found buried in the basement of her home, a few inches under the surface. She had been shot through the head.

The discovery was made by friends of Dr. Hill, who had been divorced from her several months, although the two had lived apart for five years.

A nationwide search was started for the 22-year-old son and he was arrested September 3, in Seattle, Wash., after he sold his automobile. The engine numbers led to his capture.

The state contends Mrs. Hill was shot by Harry as she stood on the basement stairs, following a quarrel over money matters. Harry had cashed checks on his mother's account totaling approximately $20,000.

Mother of Dixon Man Dies in Polo

(Telegraph Special Service) Polo, Ill., April 27.—Mrs. Elizabeth Gignous, mother of Webster Gignous of Dixon, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Calkins of this city, at 9:40 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held at the Calkins' home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and at the Christian church at 2:30. Rev. C. W. Marlow officiating and with burial in Fairmount.

Elizabeth Parks was born in Potters-town, Md., August 24, 1849, and at Frederick City, Md., on Oct. 19, 1871 she was married to Peter Gignous. They came to this vicinity in March, 1878, taking up their abode on a farm and they continued to make this community their home throughout their lives. Mr. Gignous passing on Jan. 27, 1926.

VOTING ADDITIONAL BONDS FOR HIGH SCHOOL WILL NOT PERMIT ANY INCREASE IN SCHOOL TAX

On Saturday, May 5, between the hours of 12 o'clock and 7 o'clock P. M., the voters of school district No. 170 will be given the opportunity to authorize the Board of Education to issue bonds for the purpose of completing the proposed academic portion of the new high school together with the gymnasium wing.

In accordance with the state law, it is necessary for the voters of this district to authorize any Board of Education to issue bonds. This vote, however, does not give the Board of Education permission to increase the tax rate above the regular school tax rate for building purposes. The 1927 levy of taxes which were collected in the spring of 1928 was the maximum collectable by law. It is evident, then, that the authorization of this issue by the voters will not increase the annual school tax.

It has been figured that the $273,000 issue which was authorized October 1, 1927 and the proposed issue of $180,000 can be retired and the interest paid from the annual levy.

Under a new time card, which will go into effect Sunday, the schedules of numerous Northwestern passenger trains will be changed, and patrons of the road should note such changes, which are:

Eastbound Trains
No. 24 will leave Dixon at 7:15 a. m. and arrive in Chicago at 10:10 a. m.
No. 19 will leave Dixon at 6:21 a. m. arriving in Chicago at 9:05 a. m.
No. 26 will leave at 1:13 p. m.; arrive Chicago 4:05 p. m.
No. 4 will leave at 4:00 p. m. arrive Chicago 7:30 p. m.

No. 15 will leave Chicago at 6:00 a. m. and arrive here at 10:02 a. m.
No. 13 will arrive at 12:50 p. m.

REMOVAL THREE CRIMINAL JUDGES IN CHICAGO ASKED

Crime Commission Says Politics Controls Prosecution

Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Removal of three judges from the Criminal Court bench has been demanded by the Chicago Crime Commission. A break down in law enforcement is charged and an alliance between politics and criminals is held responsible.

The statement of the Commission, a non-official organization, singled out Judges Emanuel Eller, Stanley H. Klarkowski and Otto Kerner, and pointed to the records of their courts for the last three months for substantiation of its charges.

"These judges, the statement said, 'were put on the bench by politicians, against the protests and votes of the Chicago Bar Association.'"

"During these three months there was only one trial and capital conviction for murder, and that not a gunman but of a doctor who had performed an abortion."

Gun Counts Waived? "During the same three months fully 400 jurors were in daily attendance waiting to be called to try such murderers and gunmen as had been indicted and arrested; but it was easier to waive gun counts and secure pleas of guilty to minor offenses of which the criminals were not guilty (Continued on page 2)

GREATER DIXON THEME OF GREAT MEET LAST EVE

"Get-together" of C. C. at Masonic Temple was Enthusiastic

Over 200 Dixonites attended the get-together banquet and meeting in the Masonic Temple banquet hall Thursday evening, and at its conclusion it was the consensus of all present that no finer meeting of its kind has ever been held in this city, and that the spirit shown augurs well for the prosperity and growth of the community.

Kline Makes Appeal. President Ray Kline opened the meeting after a delicious dinner had been served by the ladies of the Eastern Star, by outlining just what the Chamber stood for and he asked his hearers to tell their friends just what he had said so that there would be no misunderstanding. Mr. Kline wanted it made known that while he is at the head of the Chamber of Commerce it will back every worthwhile project that comes up in Dixon that will help the town grow. He mentioned the two most important matters that are before the citizens today, the new high school and a new bridge. He urged that all get out and vote for the extra $180,000 bonds so that Dixon can be assured of a completed high school instead of having one that will have to be added on to from year to year.

Second, that if Dixon needed a new bridge that the Chamber of Commerce was for it. After making a very spirited talk in which he urged every one to co-operate he turned the meeting over to Frank Bennett, who acted as toastmaster and proved a very capable one, top.

H. U. Bardwell was asked to give a few remarks about the new high school because as a member of the school board he could state them exactly as they were.

Urges H. S. Bonds. Mr. Bardwell urged the people present to vote the additional bond issue so that Dixon children of the present and the future can have the very best of educational facilities that are possible.

Senator Kessinger. The toastmaster then introduced the feature speaker of the evening, State Senator Harold Kessinger of Aurora, Editor of the Mid-West Review, as a man who delivers the goods. The Senator did deliver to the complete satisfaction of everyone present.

He stated that there was some town in the beautiful Rock River Valley that was going to grow and from his observation and the possibilities that Dixon has, it looked to him as if Dixon would be the town that would grow. He is convinced that small communities will grow considerably faster in the next ten years than larger centers, and stated as a fact that industry was seeking locations outside of the large centers, due to the obvious advantages gained.

He warned the members against permitting themselves to lapse into an organization which held meetings only now and then and forgot their responsibility. He cited as one example, a town he lived in some years ago which was gradually losing its population in small numbers. After each census was taken an indignation meeting would be held, resolutions would be passed, speeches made, committees appointed and that was the end of their activity until after the next census.

The Senator's address was forceful, interesting and interspersed with good stories which he told to bring out certain points. He touched on the World Court, the war debt, branch banking, the two political parties, and in fact, a number of subjects, which held the interest and attention of the audience from start to finish.

Must Pull Together. The Senator stressed the fact that everyone should pull together, and he urged that the members not go home and forget all of the things that were said at the meeting. He placed great stress on the fact that every town that amounted to anything at all was pushing ahead and growing, or at least trying to grow, and that if Dixon people did not do all that was within their power to help in every way, when called upon by the officers of the Chamber of Commerce Dixon would go backward instead of ahead. He said the Dixon is situated in the garden spot of the world in this beautiful Rock River Valley and that it was up to Dixon alone if the city goes ahead. He talked of business conditions in the middle west, said they were slow but that the country will "snap out of it" in just a matter of time, that it was just another so-called business cycle and not anywhere near as serious as 1921. Senator Kessinger is a real orator, a keen thoughtful man, and a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks. He is a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks. He is a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks.

He is a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks. He is a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks. He is a man who is not afraid to say what he thinks.

CONGRESSMAN FROM CHICAGO WAS STRICKEN

Heart Failed While He Was Talking to a Fellow Member

Washington, April 27.—(AP)—Martin B. Madden, veteran Member of Congress from Chicago, Illinois, died suddenly today.

Mr. Madden expired within a few minutes after being stricken by an acute attack of heart trouble.

He was in his office at the time the attack occurred and breathed his last within a few minutes after Representative Sprout of New York, a physician, reached his office.

Representative Summers of Washington, another physician, arrived a few minutes later. They administered first aid treatment but Mr. Madden did not respond and passed away quietly.

The representative was chairman of the Appropriations committee and in this position was one of the most influential members of the House.

He was a staunch supporter of the Coolidge administration and just recently took a leading part in trying to put over the desires of President Coolidge in connection with the Mississippi river flood control bill.

Slumped Suddenly. Mr. Madden was conferring with Representative Sprout of Illinois at the time the attack occurred. While he was talking he suddenly slumped down in his chair.

Mr. Sprout called to clerks in an office adjoining and they assisted him to a couch. He never regained consciousness.

Just preceding his conference with Mr. Sprout, Mr. Madden had talked with other colleagues regarding the District of Columbia appropriation bill and somewhat heatedly had told the House members to hold out against amendments desired in the bill by the Senate.

He was a fitting end to the career of this picturesque statesman. For years he had stood his ground against undue drains on the treasury and in upholding the position of the House whenever it had differences with the Senate.

He was in his 73rd year but active for his age and a number of his colleagues have commented in recent months over the apparent improvement in health of the committee chairman.

The House adjourned immediately in respect to the veteran representative on motion of Representative Williams, Republican, Illinois.

"Mr. Madden's death brings to a close the career of a great legislator," said Mr. Williams in announcing the death on the floor.

"For many years Mr. Madden has served as a member of the House and as chairman of the appropriations committee, and he was probably the greatest chairman that important committee has ever had."

Mr. Madden will be buried at Hinsdale, Ill., his home.

Harry Blackburn, former Dixon resident, passed through Dixon early this morning with the Community high school band of Lanark of which he is the drum major. The band was traveling in two large buses, was en route to Champaign to participate in a contest for high school bands, which opens tomorrow.

Four Big Days
The women of Dixon and vicinity are reminded to arrange their calendars of social activities so they can keep the afternoons of May 8, 9, 10 and 11 open for The Dixon Evening Telegraph's second annual free cooking school, which will be conducted in Downing hall on those days. The school this year will be bigger and better in every respect.

TAILOR SHOP BOMBED. Chicago, April 27.—(AP)—Another bombing was added to Chicago's list today when the front of a tailor shop was blown out. Hyman Galzov said he refused to obey a union order to move and the explosion followed, throwing his family out of bed.

Drugged While Asleep. Mrs. Ackerman was placed under the influence of either chloroform or ether while she slept soundly during the night and every room in her home was ransacked, she told Sheriff Miller last evening. She was still suffering from the effects of the drug.

Entrance was gained through a window in the rear of the house, in which a small corner of the pane of glass had been cracked for some time. This was removed and a nail which was the only lock on the sash, was pulled out and the sash raised. A pasteboard cracker box cover was used to hold the window up while the intruder gained entrance.

Mrs. Ackerman was emphatic in her statement that she had been drugged, while the ransacking of her home was in progress. Thus far all that is known to be missing, is a sum of money which she estimates at about $27.50 which was in a small drawer in a commode at her bed side. Beds in spare rooms were overturned, drawers were ransacked and silverware strewn about, in what appears to have been a deliberate search for money. Before leaving, however, the intruder remained long enough to eat a generous meal in the

Grobe-Lievan Wedding Celebrated Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock a quiet but impressive marriage ceremony was solemnized at the parsonage to St. Patrick's Catholic church in Dixon. Miss Ida Mae Grobe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grobe of South Dixon, was united in marriage to Elwin J. Lievan, son of Mrs. J. J. Mathias Lievan, also of South Dixon. Rev. Father Michael Foley officiated at the single ring ceremony.

The young couple were attended by Miss Esther Janssen of Rock Falls, cousin of the bride, and by Elmer Levan, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was beautifully gowned in a lovely gown of rose beige silk and allover lace, with hose and slippers ecru. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore a charming gown of green georgette crepe trimmed with tan lace. She wore a corsage of roses and sweet peas.

After the marriage service the bridal party accompanied by Mrs. J. Mathias Lievan, mother of the groom and Francis Lauff of Rock Falls, moved to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Levan in South Dixon where an elaborate three course wedding dinner was served.

The dining room was beautifully decorated with blue and white wedding bells and streamers and cut flowers and ferns.

Both the bride and bridegroom are well known young people in South Dixon and also have many friends in Dixon and vicinity who wish them every happiness. She is one of South Dixon's most popular young women, liked by all who know her for her charming disposition. The bridegroom is a popular, industrious and likeable young man, whose friends join those of his bride in best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Levan departed late Wednesday afternoon for a trip to points in Iowa and upon their return will stop in Chicago and Woodstock, Ill. They will be at home to their friends after May 1st, on the Levan homestead.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Halves of grape fruit, cereal cooked with figs, cream, crisp broiled bacon, bread crumb pancakes, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Savory spinach, bread and butter, jelly, chocolate bread pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Smothered salmon, creamed peas, hothouse tomatoes, rhubarb betty, milk, coffee.

Savory spinach is a delicious hearty luncheon dish that the family will eat without anxious urging.

Savory Spinach
One pound spinach, 3-4 cup dried celery, 1 large onion, 1-2 cup rice, 1 slice fat salt pork, 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, pepper.

Mince pork. Peel and mince onion. Wash spinach through many waters. Put pork in deep closely covered sauce pan and melt over a low fire. Add celery, onion and spinach, cover closely and cook over a low fire for fifteen minutes. Add rice and cook thirty minutes keeping the pan closely covered. Add pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Stir in cheese and serve at once.

If the rice is allowed to stand in lukewarm water to cover for several hours it should cook tender in thirty minutes and absorb the spinach juice. No water is added unless the rice does not become tender in the spinach stock before it is absorbed.

SAYS HAIR COSTS WOMEN HALF-BILLION ANNUALLY

New York (AP)—Women's "crowning glory" costs them $136,600,000 more annually for upkeep than men's sleek hair and shaven chins combined, R. Louis, Paris and New York beauty specialist, estimates.

Haircuts and shaves for the masculine population put $454,400,000 in the pockets of the nation's barbers, while women pay a total of $591,000,000 for waves, shampoos, bobs and the like, according to a survey made by him.

Approximately 19,700,000 American women spend an average of $1.25 every two weeks in hair dressing, cutting, waving and washing, Louis said.

MOTOR WATCH DOGS GUARD FUR FITTINGS

Paris —(AP)—The valuable fur fittings with which some of the costliest motor cars of Parisians are provided have opened up a new profession for pedigreed dogs.

Many a society woman's town car now carries a watch dog, not on the seat beside the liveried chauffeur but in the tonneau beside the car's owner. The dog's job is to watch fur rugs and pillows when his mistress is shopping.

The last word in luxurious motor cars is individual fur lap robes to match the fur coat of the owner of the car. The robes have concealed pockets at the top, designed to hold the make-up boxes and small personal accessories which the motorist uses. There are also fur cushions and foot muffs to match.

Controlling School Disease

As soon as school is well under way each year, contagious diseases are reported in steadily increasing numbers. Because children of varying degrees of health and resistance are brought from outdoor conditions and from comparative lack of contact to the conditions found in the school room—close contact, lack of sunshine, and lack of fresh air—each year sees a regular rise in infectious diseases among school children, beginning about a month after the opening of school in the fall.

A communicable disease is caused by living germs which get into the body of a person who is not in condition to overcome them. The disease may be communicated by direct conveyance of disease germs from a sick person to a well one; by droplet infection, in which the disease is spread in the air through coughing, sneezing, or spitting; by hand infection, in which hands soiled with excretions of the sick are placed in the mouth or come in contact with food; or by articles such as handkerchiefs, towels and pencils which have been used by the sick person and later are used by other people.

If a person is well, strong, and vigorous, if he is well nourished, and if his bowels, kidneys and skin are working perfectly, he is able to throw off a certain amount of infection because his body is stronger and more powerful than the disease germs which have gained access to his system. In other words, his resistance is good. The most common causes of lowered resistance are poor nourishment, insufficient sleep, bad air, lack of sunshine, and physical defects.

In addition to putting and keeping one's own children into the best possible condition to resist infection, how can a parent co-operate with the school and community authorities in preventing the spread of communicable diseases with their frequent serious after-effects?

First, by keeping a sick child home from school. No matter how slight the ailment may be, the child should be kept away from other children until the diagnosis of the trouble may be definitely made.

An apparently slight sore throat may be the beginning of diphtheria or scarlet fever. Such a child if allowed to mingle with other children may be the starting point of an epidemic that may cost the lives of many children.

The second point to be observed in cutting down communicable diseases is to give immediate medical care to a sick child. However mild the complaint may appear, the child should receive attention from the physician. A sore throat of the diphtheritic type, if recognized and properly treated, will recover, but if allowed to run several days without antitoxin, it may become a fatal disease. A running nose and a cough may be just an ordinary cold, or it may be the beginning of measles or one of a number of other diseases. Even a common cold is infectious and in children with lowered resistance may develop into more serious affections of the air passages, such as pneumonia or bronchitis. A persistent cough in a child may be whooping cough. This is a serious illness and in addition to its own severity reduces the child's resistance to other diseases.

The third precaution to be observed is that of quarantine. A person with a communicable disease should be isolated and prevented from coming into contact with others until the period of contagion is past. It is for this purpose of preventing a sick person from infecting those who are well that the provisions of quarantine have been made. To keep quarantine is to protect one's own family as well as other people, since its measures must be impartially enforced for all members of a community.

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION FOR FARMERS.

Senator Blaine, discussing the McNary-Haugen bill, says he would go farther and endorse the Brookhart proposal to appropriate 600 millions of dollars to finance losses of an export finance corporation. He says the farmer is a war casualty and should be treated as such and should be given adjusted compensation.

The farmer is a war casualty. There is no question of that. The Brookhart proposal, however, would not reach the worst sufferers. Their farms have been lost. The export corporation would deal with farmers who are left, the same ones the legislation now under consideration is designed to aid.

"Adjusted compensation" is a striking term to use, but it is impractical of application in the same manner that adjusted compensation of the soldiers was applied.

The Brookhart proposal involves appropriation of a large sum from the national treasury to make up losses on exports, shipped at a low figure in order to separate them from the domestic supply. Farmers generally not only are not asking for such expenditure of public money, but they are opposed to it. They are asking for legal machinery which they will finance themselves through the equalization fee. They do not want subsidy or dole. They want to do business on the high standard maintained in the United States by the protective tariff.

The Brookhart proposal is little worse than others that are pending. All mean a drain upon the United States treasury. The McNary-Haugen bill may be wrong economically because it will work, and it may be wrong economically because it will not work, opponents not agreeing upon which is the fact, but it seems to be far superior to the mess of other proposals. At least through it the farmers propose to stand their own losses, and even the proposal of Secretary Jardine did not do that. It provided another drain upon the treasury.

A NEW THOUGHT ON CLEANLINESS.

Modern science has knocked down many an old adage; but the saying, "cleanliness is next to Godliness," gets added confirmation every day.

Dr. J. L. Rice, health commissioner of New Haven, Conn., has written an article for the Cleanliness Journal in which he points out that plain, ordinary cleanliness is more effective in dealing with contagious diseases than all the fumigation in the world. Fumigation is still used, he says, not because health officers think it necessary, but because the public insists on it.

It is better, in his belief, to depend simply on thorough cleanliness. The old saying is a good one. The average disease germ may dislike formaldehyde, but he detests soap and water and fresh air and sunlight, too.

EGYPT INSISTS.

Egypt, according to Mustapha Elnahas Pasha, premier, "demands what is hers by right—independence." Egypt is preparing to "insist" that England remove her troops and give up control of the country.

It is permissible, in this world, to demand almost anything. There is often a wide gap between what you demand and what you get, however, and one imagines it will be that way in Egypt's case.

The Suez canal is highly important to England's well being. England cannot afford to risk having any hostile power entrenched nearby. It seems safe to wager that England will continue to keep troops in and near Egypt for many years to come—demands for complete independence to the contrary notwithstanding.

Storks were frozen in a recent blizzard in Poland, says a dispatch. Sometimes the stork gets a chilly reception in this country, too.

The dwarfs were having heaps of fun. Each one would grab a ball and run, and throw it out across the ground toward some bowling pins.

The stone man said, "That's how they play, and exercise the live long day. Each tries to knock the most pins down. The one who does it wins."

"Oh, I would like to play it, too. I hope that's what we're going to do," said Clowny, as he ran along right by the stone man's side. "I'll bet that I could throw that ball, and hit the pins and spill them all. It looks quite easy, though it is a game I've never tried."

"Well, you shall have your chance, my lad," the stone man said. "I'm very glad to do most anything I can to help you have some sport." He picked the Tinties up again, and very shortly met the men. Then Clowny said to Carpy, "They're a very friendly sort."

The stone man said, "These Tinties are looking 'round to see the sights. I hope you dwarfs will treat them nice and let them join your play." "Of course we will," one

Alleged Murderer of Banker Under Arrest

Edwardsville, Ill., April 26—(AP)—Carl Fiorita, 24, said by police to be an associate of St. Louis gangsters, is in jail here charged with the murder of Elmer G. Baltz, former cashier of the First National Bank of Madison, Ill., March 16, last. Baltz was shot down in cold blood by bandits who escaped with $23,500. Fiorita was arrested at Collinsville Sunday, but officers kept the arrest secret, saying there were still four more to be caught.

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, my dear: No doubt you intended your explanation of Florence's experience at the tea party to stop my worrying over your acquaintance with these men from South America but the truth is you've added considerably to it.

I simply can't bring myself to believe that it's proper for a married woman to go around as you do or to become acquainted with men who have not been introduced to you.

And it may be provincial to set standards for others but I have an idea that fastidious persons will always do it. Our own standards may not be the highest but it's better to stick to them. I'm sure I couldn't like a man who used perfume lavishly. I'd much rather smell your father's old briar pipe than a scented coat lapel.

In some ways, Marye dear, you girls of today think better than we did, but in others you seem strangely blind. So many sides of a situation escape you. Sometimes I think it's easier for you to think around a corner than in a straight line.

Can't you ask yourself what the outcome of this affair will be? Or don't you want to spoil it? I've heard girls profess to liking a dangerous situation—getting a "kick" out of it. It's nothing but a confession of boredom in most cases. People who are engaged in living useful lives

Try This New Kind of Magnesia

—multiplies the benefits plus a joy to take

NOW one of America's leading pharmaceutical laboratories has discovered a new formula of magnesia—successor to milk of magnesia, as you know it. It's called Minitrated Cream of Magnesia. With a cool mint flavor.

An important improvement plus a delight to those who find ordinary magnesia "hard to take." It multiplies the already remarkable benefits of plain milk of magnesia.

It not only neutralizes the excessive stomach acids but removes the gas that forms as well. Thus in one way alone doubling its power over old ways. Relieves stomach gas in 15 minutes. . . . indigestion quickly, amazingly. And corrects lack of "acid balance" in the stomach and bowels.

Relieves most trying cases of constipation—gently clears the intestinal tract of its poison. And has a pleasant mint flavor instead of that chalky taste.

Try a large bottle for 50c at any drug store in this city. Simply ask for Minitrated Cream of Magnesia, or mail coupon for free bottle.

Ohio Delegation to Kansas City Split

Columbus, Ohio, April 26—(AP)—Though Herbert Hoover is assured the support of 31 of Ohio's 51 delegates to the National Republican convention as a result of Tuesday's primary, where the other twenty-two, who were pledged to the late Senator Frank B. Willis, will swing their support is unknown.

Since the death of their leader, which occurred March 30, while he was campaigning for the presidential nomination, the Willis slate of delegates has advocated candidacies of several other possibilities. Among the list are Vice-President Dawes, a native Ohioan; Lowden, Curtis, Hughes and Coolidge. Entering the convention as an uncommitted delegation, it is not unlikely the Willis slate will split its strength.

The Democratic delegation, however, will present a nearly solid front, 47 of the state's 47 being lined up to vote for former Senator Alton Pomerene on the first ballot at Houston. The other delegate, an anti-organ-

Charges Farm Bill is Dawes' Vehicle

Washington, April 26—(AP)—Debate on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, was opened in the House today with a charge by a southern Democrat that the bill was being used as a political vehicle to carry Vice President Dawes to the White House.

Representative Aswell of Louisiana, the ranking Democratic member of the House agriculture committee, brought Mr. Dawes' name into the discussion. He said that an organized lobby, called the "corn belt lobby," wanted the bill vetoed in an attempt to make it appear that they had given Frank O. Lowden an issue on which to run for the presidency.

"They have sidetracked Lowden now after using him as long as they wanted to, and turned to Dawes," he said. "He (Dawes) represents the international bankers and they are behind him to cancel the war debts."

Good Thoughts for Good People

Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

1 John

We should so live and labor in our time that what came to us as seed may go to the next generation as blossom, and that what came to us as blossom may go to them as fruit. This is what we mean by progress.

The slowest of us cannot but admit that the world moves.

Wendell Phillips.

If the ancients left us ideals, to our credit be it spoken that we moderns are building houses for them.

A. Bronson Alcott.

Look up and not down; look forward and not back; look out and not in; and lend a hand.

No greater proof of the divine quality of Christianity, as taught and practiced by Christ Jesus, could be found than is revealed in the progress toward higher idealism which humanity has made since the beginning of the Christian era. Nothing but the unfolding of spiritual truth in the hearts of men could account for the increasing manifestation of the Christian virtues which were exemplified by Christ Jesus and since have been accepted by a vast multitude.

3.—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each pump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

Shot While Police
Wait to Arrest Him

St. Louis, April 26—(AP)—Shot by an unidentified assailant as police were waiting at a barber shop nearby to arrest him, Tony Musso, 39, a barber, died early today from two wounds without making a statement.

With a record of eleven arrests on charges of extortion and assault to kill, Musso, police said, had a reputation of wringing money from fellow tradesmen under threats of violence.

Musso was completing a shave and haircut for a customer when a dark complected man entered the front door of the shop, and fired twice. The man ran to an automobile parked in front, and escaped with the two occupants of the machine.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy
Along the Fast Way to Health
QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY, M.D., IN CARE OF THE PAPER. ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESS ENVELOPE FOR REPLY.

Dr. McCoy, noted Los Angeles specialist, will gladly answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Telegraph. Enclose stamped, addressed, large envelope for reply.

USE BOTH COOKED AND RAW FOOD

There is a widespread belief that while man may live without "books," he cannot live without "cooks." But a vast, increasing number of people are attempting to live on uncooked food alone.

Most of these raw-fooders "claim to be able to live in good health on only uncooked vegetables, fruits and nuts. It is true there have been instances where this diet has proved adequate for all of the body's requirements, but upon close investigation I have found that most people professing to believe in the efficiency of raw food really add to their otherwise restricted diet such food as cereals, grains, eggs, cheese and milk. It is likewise true that those who claim to be vegetarians generally use milk, eggs, cheese and such animal products.

The raw food diet certainly provides plenty of vitally nourishing food, but has several drawbacks which make it an impractical diet to use day after day, and year after year. It is necessary to use a large amount of food on this diet, as most of the vegetables and fruits used contain so much water and cellulose that the stomach must be filled to capacity in order to be sure of a sufficient amount of material which is tissue-building.

The herbivorous animals spend most of their waking moments engaged in the pleasant pastime of chewing, swallowing and digesting food. Modern man does not have the inclination or energy to use up so much time in order to get enough nourishment. The keen-minded man of today cannot give so much of his attention to food, but the dull, phlegmatic man, who is willing to be mostly a walking digestive organ, still exists.

Another good reason why a strict raw food diet is not practical is that it is a most "unsocial" diet. If one persists in such a radical diet, he will soon have few friends who are willing to dine with him.

Because he does not wish to seem "queer" the raw-fooder will eat his own restricted diet, and then to be sociable use some of his friends' tasty dishes. In place of deliberately choosing a good steak, he will invariably select the most unwholesome foods because of their pleasing taste. He is also very liable to fill up between meals on ice cream, candy and soft drinks. In fact, the candy stores would soon go out of business if it were not for the undernourished people who patronize them. These same people are usually overfed, but still starving for the right foods out of which they can secure the proper elements to build and repair their bodily tissues. Craving something else, their appetite tries to secure satisfaction by the use of sweets. This is particularly true of the earnest student of dietetics who attempts to live on an exclusive uncooked diet. The craving for sweets always seems to be present, and is never satisfied.

The best plan is to use enough raw vegetables and fruit each day to supply the needed organic minerals, and to also use such cooked foods as the grains, and the valuable proteins, such as meat, fish, fowl, etc. These meals will be abundantly satisfying if cooked greens are also added.

KEEP ABDOMINAL MUSCLES DEVELOPED

If man walked on all fours, the abdominal organs would hang in their natural position from the sides. Just because he has learned to walk erect, these organs easily sag down and lie on each other in the lower abdominal cavity. The stomach and intestines lie upon the lower organs of the pelvis, pushing them out of position down to the very basin of the pelvis. The consequence is that many faulty positions of these organs are developed.

One of the commonest troubles from prolapsus of the abdominal organs is that caused by kinks in the colon. These may occur in the large colon or in the small intestines, and are due either to the spasms of these organs, or to adhesions which pull some part of the intestine out of its normal position. Adhesions are composed of connective tissue which grows from the irritated covering of one organ to another irritation on an adjacent organ.

Obstruction is often the cause of constipation, and means obstruction of the intestines. Without prolapsus or inflammation of these organs, such obstruction could not exist, but the fact that it does exist shows that prolapsus is very common.

Weakening of the abdominal muscles can be cited as the principal cause of any gastro-enteroptosis. (That sounds terrible, doesn't it?) That large word simply means prolapsus of the stomach and intestines. Few people keep their abdominal muscles well enough developed so that their abdomens are flat, but allow a bay window to develop, with a tagging belly which distorts their whole anatomical structure.

This protrusion of the abdomen is unlovely to the sight, but more than that it is positively dangerous to health, as it indicates an unhealthy condition of all the organs of the abdomen. As this bay window protrudes and sags down, it is evidence of the gradual weakening of the muscular tone of the entire alimentary canal. Constipation and costiveness must result from this sagging.

There is no way you can restore these organs to their normal tone and bring them back to their proper position except by taking vigorous exercise for the abdominal muscles.

Those exercises taken while lying on the back called the "setting up" exercises are the best for this purpose, and you can develop these muscles equally as well as the prize fighter or wrestler.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that athletes are born with any better opportunity for developing their muscles than you have. If you will develop the washboard muscles of the abdomen of the prize fighter, you can rest assured that you will not suffer from any kind of prolapsus.

Do not waste your time taking exercises while standing, as these exercises have no appreciable effect upon the abdominal muscles. Take all of your exercises while lying on your back on the floor. Practice the exercises slowly at first, and gradually increase until you can do them vigorously for at least fifteen minutes a day.

The flatter your abdomen becomes, the greater your degree of strength and health, with a decrease in weight and an added buoyancy to your step. I will be glad to send you a special article describing these exercises, with an illustrated chart which will make them plain to you. Just send a large, self addressed stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Ethel D. asks: "Could you tell me a remedy for my fingers. They get extremely cold, then they start swelling first in the joints and then work up to the fingertips. The soreness starts by small lumps forming under the skin, then becoming real red. By touching anything cold my fingers get blue and numb. Would like to find a cure, as I have to work for a living."

ANSWER: Probably you are having some kind of functional heart trouble. Your physician should be able to tell you whether my guess is correct. Send for special articles on heart derangements and poor circulation.

QUESTION: Mrs. R. W. writes: "Please tell me if you consider rhubarb a good food."

ANSWER: If rhubarb could be made palatable without the addition of so much sugar in its preparation, my answer would be "yes," but as it does require this excessive amount of sugar, I never recommend it.

QUESTION: J. K. H. writes: "Four years ago I was operated on for frontal sinus trouble. All went well till this past month, since when the incision in my nose and part of my eyebrow has been breaking open about every week, with a discharge of pus and bloody serum. What causes this, and how can it be stopped?"

ANSWER: Operations for sinus and antrum trouble are usually disappointing, as one operation follows the other in an attempt to get rid of the pus condition which can be cured only through cleaning up the blood stream. A ten day fast should clear up your trouble, and if you will then live on a suitable diet it should not return. I have written a special article called A GOOD CLEANSING DIET which tells you exactly how to take a short fast followed by a cleansing diet. Send a large, self-addressed envelope with your request for this article.

QUESTION: W. M. F. writes: "I have a continuous feeling of nervousness and depression, also always have a red nose. What do you suggest?"

ANSWER: Overcome constipation and intestinal poisoning, as this is no doubt what makes you nervous and also causes the red nose. Take an enema each day until you learn enough about diet to correct your trouble. Send for my special article on the cause and cure of constipation.

QUESTION: Young Mother asks: "Do you recommend the use of raw milk instead of the pasteurized? I always thought the pasteurized milk best because it is claimed this process kills the germs. Besides, it is almost impossible to get raw milk in some localities."

ANSWER: I consider good certified milk to be the best for all purposes except in localities where the laws are not strict and inspection rigidly enforced. Pasteurization does very little harm to the food value of milk, and many authorities claim that the epidemics from contaminated milk have been entirely stamped out wherever the law compels the pasteurization of milk.

QUESTION: Mrs. J. K. asks: "Please tell me what causes the arms to go to sleep and get numb at night? Is this because of high blood pressure?"

ANSWER: If you know you have high blood pressure you have doubtless answered your own question, as this does cause the arms to become numb. Valvular leakage of the heart is also sometimes responsible for poor circulation and numbness in the arms.

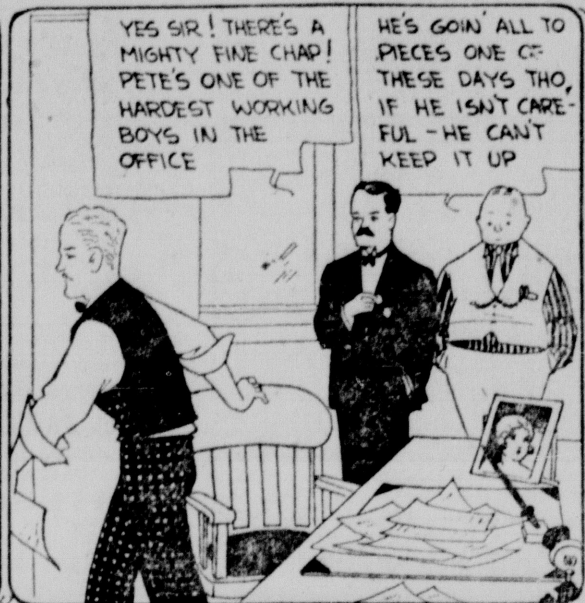

Hanged Son and Self

Chicago, April 26—(AP)—A man and a boy were found dead by hanging in a cemetery at River Grove yesterday, a note, unsigned, said the writer had been unable to find work. The man was about 38 years old and his body was found hanging from a tree. At his feet was the body of a five year old boy, who apparently had been hanged and then cut down. "I am taking the one I love best in this world with me," said the note.
